Hector's Column

Camp Outfitter—"I want to see some mirrors."
Storekeeper—"Hand mirrors?"
Camp Outfitter—"No; some that you can see your face in!"

The street-car conductor examined the transfer thoughtfully and said meekly, "This here transfer expired an hour ago, lady."
"The lady, digging into her purse after a coin, replied, "No wonder, with not a single ventilator open in the whole car!"

"What do you wish, madame?" said the primary election officer to Mrs. Tenspot. "You have already voted once to-day; you voted before noon, you know?" "Oh, yes, I know that," replied the voteres, "but I want to change my ballot."

"Is your husband out stumping any this fall?" asked the candidate anxiously. "No, sir; he ain't," answered the good woman. "He's dug his potatoes and stacked his corn, but he ain't goin' to stumpin' till after election; the stumps come out easier after the ground's frozen."

Dad Skimmilk came into the stable the other morning to find the new hand loafing on the job. "Wassamatter, wassamatter?" he asked. "Can't you find anything to do?" "Gee whiz!" said the weary one. "Am I expected to do the work and find it too?"

"Hello, my little man, where is your father?" Thus a well dressed gentleman addressed the ranch kid. "That depends," the coming diplomatist replied, "if you are the man who collects the interest on the mortgage, then my father is not at home and I do not know where he is nor when he will return. If you are a political candidate, then he will be ready to see you next Sunday. And if you are the man who is willing to pay a good price for beans, then you will find him over yonder in the corral."

Tragedies in Pinto Land

He stepped on the throttle to see if he could beat the train to the crossing.
He couldn't.
He struck a match to see if his gasoline tank was empty.
It wasn't.
He patted a strange bulldog on the head to see if the critter was affectionate.
He wasn't.
He looked down the barrel of his gun to see if it was loaded.
It was.
He tried other dealers to see if he got better goods and lower prices than Hector provides.
He couldn't.
He spent postage galore and time a plenty to find a better line than Rawleigh's Good Health Preparations and Family Supplies.
He didn't.
Note—With apologies to some of my friends, I hereby announce myself as THE RAWLEIGH MAN for, in and about Mountainair in Torrance County, New Mexico.
